What is Aloha Harvest?

At no charge to food donors or recipients, Aloha Harvest rescues quality excess food from 250+ donors (grocery stores, restaurants, dining halls, farms, events, etc). AH same-day delivers that food to 175+ social service agencies that distribute it to those in need, including those who are unemployed, homeless, disabled, mentally ill, and veterans.

Apply to become a Partner Agency:

- ✔ Visit www.alohaharvest.org and fill out the electronic Partner Agency Application. Alternatively, you can email info@alohaharvest.org to receive a fillable PDF or to receive a hard copy application in the mail. Return instructions are noted on these documents.
- ✔ Along with your application, whether by web, email or snail mail, include a document (usually your Determination Letter from the IRS) confirming your status as a 501(c)3.
- ✔ We'll schedule a site visit to meet your team and see your operations.
- ✔ Upon your approval, we'll begin delivering food to you on a regular or as-needed basis!

At YouthBuild Waimānalo, youth earn a GED, learn construction skills, help to build affordable housing, and learn about possible future paths such as apprenticeships, full-time employment, or going to a community college. Aloha Harvest helps provide meals for these youth.

Many religious spaces, like St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church in Honolulu (above) or Immaculate Conception Church in Ewa Beach (below), run food pantries or meal programs that Aloha Harvest helps supply.

ALEA Bridge, a Wahiawa-based nonprofit that works to help those who are homeless achieve self-sufficiency, receives regular deliveries from Aloha Harvest. As one example, they contacted us to bring excess food to a community resource fair for residents of a transitional housing unit.

List + agency quotes coming soon!

Aloha Harvest is currently gathering feedback from our Partner Agencies, and one of our questions is whether or not they give us permission to list their name in our informational materials. We are waiting to print our full 2020 list until we complete this feedback-gathering process.
