Oahu Compost Project Wraps Up: Successful Year of Transforming Food Waste into Rich Soil Amendment

The Oahu Compost Project (OCP) has concluded after one year of diverting food waste from Chinatown businesses and recycling it into compost, marking a significant milestone in sustainable waste management. This collaborative pilot initiative, aimed at creating a model for future public compost programs, brought together various partners to develop and test strategies for diversion and composting.

Over the course of the project, OCP successfully diverted over 30,000 pounds of food waste, producing 39,537 lbs. of finished compost while reducing 8.12 tons of CO2eq emissions. The success of the OCP underscores the significant environmental impact achievable by scaling similar operations and highlights the importance of collaborative efforts in promoting sustainable waste management practices for a healthier and more resilient Hawaii.

From Machines to Meals: Aloha Harvest Raises $13,504 in Giving Machine Fundraiser

Last year, Aloha Harvest was honored to be chosen as one of five charities participating in the Giving Machine fundraiser on Oahu. Operated during the holiday season, these vending machines raised funds, with 100% of the proceeds going directly to the selected charities.

With immense gratitude, we thank the Giving Machine, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and all the generous donors for their support. Through their contributions, we received $13,504, fueling our mission to fight hunger and food waste in Hawaii. Together, we're making a difference, one meal at a time.

Panning for Support: Aloha Harvest's Mission to Replenish Essential Supplies

Get ready to support Aloha Harvest's next initiative! In our upcoming aluminum pan drive, we're rallying the community to help replenish our essential supply of aluminum hotel pans. These pans play a vital role in our operations as a food rescue organization. By providing our food donors with these pans, we enable them to easily package their ready-made prepared foods, facilitating seamless pick-ups and donations.

Stay tuned for how you can get involved and make a difference in the fight against hunger and food waste on Oahu!

We are a small local non-profit that depends on donations to keep our services free for the community.
